Elba Police Chief placed on administrative leave with pay

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The City of Elba announced this week that Harold (Troy) Staley had been placed on administrative leave from his duties as Chief of Police in Elba.

An official statement released Tuesday morning, June 20, by Elba City Clerk Sally Bane, noted that Staley was placed on administrative leave with pay Saturday, June 17th. According to the statement Staley is on this administrative leave until further notice.

City officials offered no

trative leave.

The Elba City Council voted Monday, Nov. 29, 2021, to confirm the appointment made by Mayor Tom Maddox to hire Staley as Elba's Chief of Police. At that time, a committee had interviewed six applicants from a total of 18 for the job with Staley being Maddox's top pick.

Prior to coming to Elba as Chief of Police, Staley worked as a patrol sergeant with the Opp Police Department.

In the interim, with Staley on administrative leave, city officials said Lieutenant Ian Shayne Arnett would act as Chief of Police. Also, Lieutenant Russ Young will serve as the point of contact for E911 dispatch services.

Both Arnett and Young are longtime employees with the Elba Police Department. Arnett was serving the city as interim police chief when Staley was hired in 2021.

NEW MARQUEE ARRIVES FOR ELBA THEATRE...A truck rolled into downtown Elba earlier this week carrying a new bright, shiny marquee sign for the Elba Theatre, located on Court Street in Elba. Installation for the new sign began on Tuesday. This has been a long-awaited addition for the theatre building, which is operated by the Restoration 154 organization in Elba. A new marquee sign is just one more thing to mark off the renovations checklist for the local venue.

ZC Bass Team competes in state championships

Lincoln Landing on beautiful Logan Martin Lake hosted the Alabama BASS Nation High School State Championship Tournament June 2 and 3, 2023. Based on their performance in their regular season, Zion Chapel's team Padgett/Young qualified to fish this championship tournament.

This tournament is made up of the top finishers in the Tiger Division (south Alabama) and the Tide Division (north Alabama). A total of 204 boats competed in this tournament.

Logan Martin Lake is a reservoir located in east central Alabama on the Coosa River approximately 30 miles east of Birmingham.

Registration for Master Gardener Intern Course open

Registration for the Coffee County Master Gardener Intern Course for Fall 2023 is open and will close June 30, 2023.

The Alabama Cooperative Extension System announced, "You do not have to be a garden expert. Simply come with a desire to learn and grow."

Master Gardeners are extension-trained volunteers who get connected to gardening information and educational opportunities. To become a Master Gardener, applicants must complete 50 hours of volunteer work in various community projects and a 14-week horticulture training course. The course cost is $150, which covers the book, class materials, name badge, and t-shirt.

The Alabama Master Gardener Course is taught by extension agents and horticulture specialists. Fall class topics include soils and plant nutrition, basic botany, integrated pest management, plant diseases, beneficial and pest insects, plant care and Extending 48.5 miles from the dam upstream to Neely Henry Dam, the shore length totals 275 miles.

Located partially in Calhoun, St. Clair, and Talladega Counties, Logan Martin draws anglers who are seeking largemouth and spotted bass.

As Avery Padgett stated, "What a week it was!" They had spent four days practicing for the state championship with hopes of ending the season with a win, but that did not happen.

After four days of practicing, Team Padgett/Young had a good plan and had found big fish. However, Padgett said when Day One came if anything could go wrong, it did that day. From losing them to breaking them off, they just could not get them in the boat. He said they definitely had the bites on day one to put them way up the leader board, but it just didn't go their way.

After an amazing senior year on the water, Team Padgett/Young felt that they were bound to have "one of those days," and this was indeed one of them.

At the end of two days of tournament fishing, although they caught their limit each day, they ended in 64th place out of 204 boats. It was a long way from the

DHR seeking foster homes for elderly, disabled adults

As the state's population ages, the Alabama Department of Human Resources (DHR) is seeking adult foster homes to help protect and care for vulnerable adults at risk for mistreatment.

Adult foster care enables at-risk elderly and disabled adults to stay in homes instead of institutional settings when relocation is necessary to keep them safe.

More than 600 vulnerable adults in Alabama are placed some-where other than their own homes because of a high risk for abuse, neglect and exploitation. Many require the services of facilities like nursing homes, but some are better suited for homes within their communities. To serve those individuals, DHR hopes to recruit at least one adult foster home in each of Alabama's 67 counties. The state currently has 21 adult foster homes.

"Having more adult foster homes will promote greater independence and a better quality of life for vulnerable adults who require minimal care," said Alabama DHR Commissioner Nancy Buckner. "We encourage Alabamians with space in their homes to give adult foster care a try and experience the life-changing rewards firsthand."

This program serves adults who can live safely in a home environment but need help or supervision with daily activities. Most have been victimized by family members or caregivers in the past.

Valinda Young, an adult foster care provider in Enterprise, Ala., said watching the growth of the adults in her care has been the highlight of her two years in the program.

"Since the ladies arrived in my home, they all have shown dramatic improvement," Young said. "All had been very much at risk for abuse and neglect before, but they do not have to worry about that anymore. We all work together and support each other like one big family."

Nearly 18% of Alabamians are 65 or older, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. The elderly population has continued to expand in recent years, running parallel to increasing reports of adult abuse, neglect and exploitation.

DHR's Adult Protective Services Division received 12,033 reports statewide in fiscal year 2022, an increase of nearly 115% in the past 10 years.

Those interested in becoming adult foster care providers are encouraged to contact a county DHR office. More information, including eligibility requirements, is available at dhr.alabama.gov/AFC.

DHR also reminds the public to report suspected adult abuse, neglect and exploitation by calling the Adult Abuse Hotline at 1-800-458-7214, emailing aps@dhr.alabama.gov or contacting a county DHR office. Warning signs include:

- Increased fear or anxiety
- Isolation from friends or family
- Withdrawal from normal activities
- Unusual changes in behavior or sleep
- Unexplained injuries, bruises, cuts or sores
- Unsanitary living conditions and poor hygiene
- Unusual or sudden changes in financial spending patterns, wills or other important documents.

"I saw a movie once where only the police and military have guns. It was called Schindler's List." - Unknown

"Debt Crisis" is a catch phrase that is being batted around in Washington these days. Of course the legislature is split right along party lines but frankly it is the truth. In our homes we reach a point when borrowing money stops when there is just no where else to borrow because there is no visible way of paying it back. The federal government solves that issue by just printing more greenbacks or selling deep pocket investors a revenue bond. Us folks out in all the rest of America pay the prices of the newly printed billions with a (taxable) dollar pay raise and a two (or three) dollar increase in the price of food, houses, etc. WE all like it when the federal dollars flow into the community as 'grants' but remember . . . the government doesn't have a single dollar that it doesn't get from the taxpayers (until they print some).

The news Monday was that Hunter Biden, son of the president, will plead guilty to federal tax charges and lying about drug use when purchasing a handgun. The misdemeanor tax charges are something that happens to lots of folks, but this guy is the son of the U. S. President. We expect the punishment to be minor, but mostly very embarrassing for the Biden family. But he is stepping up and facing the bullet, which will surely make the punishment much less than if he had fought the charges.

We can't help but compare Hunter's accepting things and Donald Trump's fighting (and denying) the mess over the classified documents he refused to return to the proper authorities. Odds are that if he has said, "Oops, I messed up but here are the secret documents," his involvement would only be a blip in the history books. Whatever happens he now will go in the history books as the first former president to be indicted in federal court. We like the words of Ohio U.S. Representative Mike Turner, who said, "I'm certainly not going to defend the behavior that is listed in that complaint, but they're going to have to prove it." That is about as fair as anyone has addressed the pending charges against Donald Trump.

Activity at City Hall is constantly generating new things. Some of it is good and some not so good . . . that is life. This week the action is the news of placing the Elba police chief on administrative leave. The streets are active with rumors relating to this event, but city officials are only saying the bare facts, acknowledging he is on administrative leave. Stay tuned for the second act of this play!!

The Moore You Know Column: Equal justice under law?

The phrase "Equal justice under law", based upon the 14th Amendment, is engraved on the front of the Supreme Court in Washington, D.C. and is foundational to our justice system. But under the Biden Administration, equal justice has morphed into weaponized government. Biden's corrupt Justice Department has gone after parents, Catholic parishioners, pro-life Christians, and now his top political opponent, Donald J. Trump.

For years, the mainstream media has breathlessly reported on supposed schemes to influence our elections on behalf of Republicans. Yet the real evidence we have of election engineering is Biden indicting his opponent of espionage for mishandling classified documents by keeping them in a locked bathroom. Never mind President Clinton's sock drawer, Hilary Clinton's e-mails, or Biden's own garage.

America's political battles belong at the ballot box, not in the hands of Biden's weaponized Justice Department.

From gas stoves to pistol braces, President Biden and the radical left want to use the bureaucracy to control

Cuzin Lou Lou's Tales from Yonder

Editor's Note: Cuzin Lou Lou's tales are to be enjoyed as a light-hearted form of Southern expression

It has been stormy recently, and Cuzin Lou Lou and the Gang are beginning to feel water-logged. They are grateful for the rain the area has received but admit it would be even better to come without severe storms attached!

Last Wednesday night, the Gang fell into the category that many others experienced - no electricity for several hours. Admittedly, it is no fun to "sit in the dark" with most everything in the house not working due to no juice to power them, but Lou Lou decided during the three-plus hours the Gang had to survive without electricity that it is not all bad either.

The Gang was lucky in that Papa had available a battery pack in which he keeps charged at all times. This made way for Lou Lou to utilize some USB-powered photography lights she owns. Papa's battery pack contains several USB plug-ins and that powered Lou Lou's lights to keep the Gang from sitting completely in the dark for the outage.

Even better, the lights are LED so they lit up the living room of the Yonder Gang's house extremely well!

Those USB plug-ins became even more important when Sister realized her Kindle, which she uses to read her books, was almost out of charge too! She was about to go into panic mode when Lou Lou informed her that all she had to do was plug the USB cord from her Kindle into Papa's batter pack, and it would provide her more charge to be able to read.

That was one meltdown averted. However, Sister was not thrilled with the slower than usual charging the batter pack provided in comparison to fully working electrical outlets. So, while a meltdown was averted, there still was a bit of whining.

In the meantime, Lou Lou and Sister pulled out the UNO cards, and went "old school" with passing the quiet time. They got in several games before the electricity was seemingly restored. The lights came on for about five minutes and then went out again!

This time, Sister wasn't as willing to hold off on her complaints. It was getting closer and closer to bedtime, and she made it known that she would not be a happy camper if she had to "go to bed with no air conditioning running nor her personal fan blowing on her throughout the night. Lou Lou fueled the fire even more by saying she wasn't warm at all... in fact, she told Sister she needed a blanket to cover up because she was a bit chilly!

Thanks to those LED photography lights, Lou Lou did not miss the giant eyeroll she received from Sister when she said that about the blanket.

Fortunately, the second outage only last about another 30-40 minutes and the local electrical crew had the Gang up and running again! Sister could go to bed with her A/C running and her fan blowing on high. This also meant Lou Lou could get a good night's rest by avoiding a highly annoyed Sister.

As Lou Lou reflected over the evening, first and foremost, she was grateful to the Yonder electrical workers that got out that night after the storms passed and restored the town's electricity as quickly as they were able to do so. The folks in Yonder had power restored by the local electrical crew much quicker than some of the surrounding areas!

Also, Lou Lou realized that in sitting on the couch talking with Papa and Sister, snuggling with Little Bean, and even playing UNO - these were things that would not have necessarily happened for as long as they did that evening had it not been for the power outage. Instead, Lou Lou most likely would have been sitting at her computer working on one of her many projects, she would have been doing housework, or everyone would have been in their own spaces glued to the television, etc. Not being able to do any of those things, the Gang sat and spent quality time together relaxing and enjoying one another's company (well...except for the few times Sister needed to whine just a little bit).

That 3-plus hour power outage served as a good reminder to Lou Lou to actually slow down every once and a while and enjoy the simpler things in life! Plain 'ole conversation is good for the soul every now and again!

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling.

Options for Pallbearer Gifts

Although serving as a pallbearer is considered an honor by many, it is also important for surviving family members - specifically those arranging the funeral - to show their appreciation for the services these individuals provide. In some services, family members may fill this role if necessary, but most will ask close friends or congregation members to serve as active or honorary pallbearers. It is likely those fulfilling this role may find the experience emotional, and it is important to respect this response.

Providing a gift is a great way to say "thank you" and allow pallbearers to commemorate their own experience in the service. Some ideas for pallbearer gifts include:

Framed Photographs of the Deceased. Individuals may select a uniform photograph placed in a nice silver frame to give to all pallbearers, as a way for them to capture the memory of their deceased loved one. If possible, some may choose to personalize each gift by providing each pallbearer with a unique framed photo capturing his or her relationship with the deceased.

Customized Tokens of Appreciation. Those who want to do something special for the pallbearers' service may choose to select a customized gift for each individual. Apart from photographs, these tokens of appreciation may include simple jewelry pieces, pressed flowers from the funeral or an inscribed memorial plaque. Some may even choose to gift something of the deceased that correlates to his or her relationship with the pallbearer, such as a book or music album.

Thank You Notes. Although it is customary for pallbearers to send thank you notes to the surviving members of the family, those planning the funeral can also consider writing a message to honor the service of these individuals. Thank you notes can be brief and only need to express gratitude for support and service during the funeral.

There is no standard for pallbearer gifts, but those who opt to provide them should make sure the gesture is meaningful and honors the service - even if just a small token of gratitude.

CHURCH NEWS

PASTOR'S CORNER

by Steve Reneau, Pastor

Elba United Methodist Church

I invite you to read Matthew 10:24-39, and read the article below.

In a society driven by comfort, convenience, and individualism, the words of Jesus Christ, as recorded in the Gospel of Matthew, continue to resonate with a countercultural message. It challenges believers to embrace a radical commitment to discipleship, urging them to let go of personal desires, take up their crosses, and follow Jesus.

In this powerful passage, Jesus prepares the disciples for the difficult journey that lies ahead. He reminds them that no servant is greater than their master, implying that they should not expect an easier path than the one Jesus has walked. The verse reads, "A disciple is not above the teacher, nor a slave above the master" (Matthew 10:24, NRSV).

The passage further delves into the societal challenges that await those who choose to follow Jesus wholeheartedly. Jesus warns the disciples about the potential division within families and communities due to their faith. He says, "For I have come to set a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; and one's foes will be members of one's own household" (Matthew 10:35-36, NRSV).

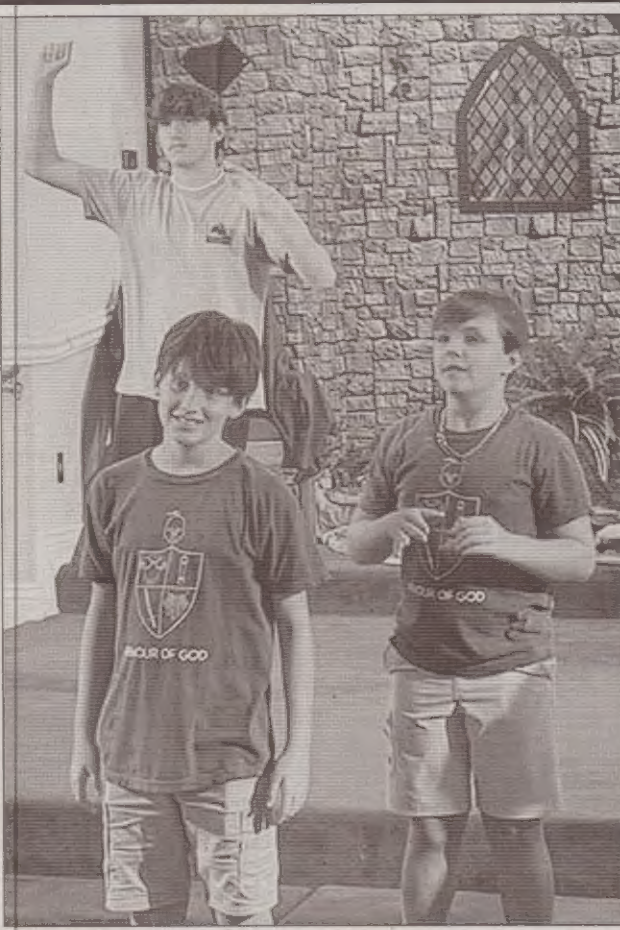

The radical demands of discipleship, as portrayed in this passage, include a willingness to bear the cross of persecution and self-sacrifice. Jesus declares, "Those who find their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will find it" (Matthew 10:39, NRSV). These words highlight the paradoxical nature of Christian commitment, urging believers to let go of worldly attachments and trust in God's providence.

Moreover, Jesus encourages the disciples not to fear those who oppose their faith, reminding them of God's unwavering care and protection. He assures them, "Even the hairs of your head are all counted. So, do not be afraid; you are of more value than many sparrows" (Matthew 10:30-31, NRSV). This reassurance strengthens the disciples' resolve and provides them with the courage to face persecution and rejection.

The passage challenges believers today to examine their commitment to Christ and evaluate the extent to which they have embraced His teachings. It calls for a radical transformation of priorities, where selflessness and faithfulness become paramount. Jesus' words serve as a reminder that following Him involves sacrifice and a willingness to bear the cost of discipleship.

This passage resonates with Christians across generations, reminding them that the call to discipleship is not an easy one. It prompts believers to reflect on their own lives and consider how they can live out their faith authentically in a world that often values personal comfort over sacrificial love.

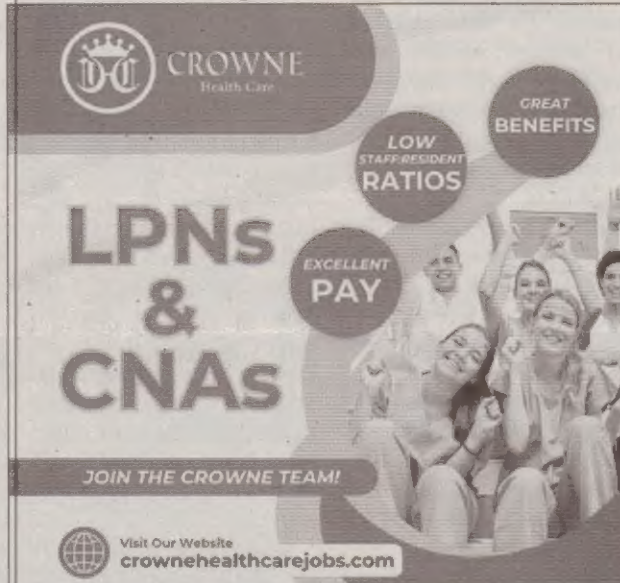

As the world continues to grapple with various societal and moral challenges, this scripture remains a beacon of hope and a call to action. It challenges believers to embrace a counter-cultural commitment to their faith, urging them to follow Jesus, even in the face of adversity. As modern-day disciples seek to navigate a complex and rapidly changing world, these words of Jesus offer guidance, encouragement, and a reminder that true fulfillment is found in wholeheartedly following Him, regardless of the sacrifices involved.

Basin Baptist Church, located on Hwy. 189 S, Elba, has been in full VBS mode this week as youngsters (ages PreK thru 6th Grade) have learned how they can be a part of God's Kingdom through salvation in his Son and be equipped with the armor of God as part of the "Keepers of the Kingdom" themed program. Above, Levi Daniels and Shaw Martin Cowen participate in the music class with their 4th-6th grade group. In the back, youth volunteer Reed Brewer assists as a music teacher for VBS.

For Lack of Track Shoes

You couldn't find a more faithful woman than Hazel. Her son Donnie, however, was a different story; he had left the church immediately after graduating from high school. Now he was in his late 50s, and Hazel longed for her boy to come back to Christ. She begged me to visit him; I did.

"Would you mind telling me why you stopped attending church?" I asked Donnie. "In high school, I was a good distance runner. I even broke our league's mile record, but I ran every race in my clodhoppers. The same shoes I wore to school — the only pair of shoes I owned," he explained. "I asked Mom and Dad for a pair of track shoes, but they said we couldn't afford them. I reminded them of the flour canister in the cupboard. Every payday Dad would put money in there. I asked if we could use that money."

"Oh no!" they said. "That's the Lord's money. We made a pledge to the church. We can't use it for anything else! I went to the state meet, ran in my old shoes, and lost," Donnie continued sadly. "Track shoes would have made a difference."

Not know what to say, I responded, "I'm sorry, Donnie." With misty eyes Donnie concluded, "I decided that if the God who owns the entire universe needed money more than I needed track shoes, He isn't much of a God."

I enjoyed my visit with Donnie and prayed for him often, but he never said yes to Jesus as far as I know. I could conclude here with "the moral of the story," but I think you know what it is. — C.T.

THAT'S A LOT OF RICE! A hibachi dinner fundraiser was conducted last Saturday, June 17, to help the Elba High School FCCLA program raise funds to send several students to the national FCCLA STAR events in July. Nationals will be held in Denver, Colorado. Family and friends of the students participating in this trip came together to prepare a hibachi meal of steak and chicken along with fried rice, cabbage and veggies. Over 160 plates were sold and served last Saturday night. All the food preparations took place at the Elba Country Club. Cooks for the event are pictured above. They are: (front, l to r) Robby Forbes, Chris Hudson, Neil Grantham, LoWayne Parks, and Chris Moseley; and (back) Khrist Smith and Rod Morgan. The Elba High School FCCLA sponsor is Christina Morgan. The hibachi fundraiser was deemed a deliciously, good success!

Seniors age 60 and older encouraged to get active with Elba Senior Center

Seniors age 60 and older are encouraged to attend the Elba Senior Citizens Center.

Along with nutritious meals five days a week, the director works with seniors to help them apply for several programs they may qualify, including Farmers Market Vouchers, HRDC- Energy Assistance, Food Assistance, Medicaid Waiver, Senior Rx Program, Medicare Savings Program, etc. Seniors must be an active participant at the Elba Senior center for the director to sign them up for the qualifying programs.

To become a center participant, attendance is not based on income. This is a social place to come have fun and find or make new friends. If interested in joining the center stop by or call (334) 897-3019. The center is located at 304 N. Factory Ave. (across from the Elba Police Department).

Seniors age 60 and older that cannot come to the center may qualify for meals being brought to their home.

For questions, call center director Donna Falls at (334) 897-3019.

ADPH reports statewide increase in cyclospora infections

The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) is investigating multiple reports of Cyclospora infection statewide. ADPH has seen more infections with this parasite since April, and there are more than twice as many cases as were reported in Alabama last year.

Cyclosporiasis is a gastrointestinal illness caused by a microscopic parasite. In the U.S., people can get sick with cyclosporiasis by eating fresh produce that was grown outside the U.S. and contaminated with Cyclospora.

Cyclosporiasis can be mild or serious and cause an illness that can result in prolonged gastrointestinal (gut) distress, including watery diarrhea with frequent, sometimes explosive, bowel movements that can last for weeks. In severe cases, Cyclospora infection can require hospitalization. Most people with healthy immune systems will recover without treatment. Some people may require treatment, such as people with poor health or weakened immune systems, including those with HIV/AIDS, cancer, or taking immunosuppressive medications. Cyclosporiasis is not contagious. There is no evidence it spreads from person to person. If you have had diarrhea, stomach cramps, bloating or other gastrointestinal symptoms lasting longer than several days, talk to your healthcare provider.

To help prevent Cyclospora infection:

Alabama Legislature passes Safe Haven Law for surrendered infants

Alabama's Safe Haven law will soon provide even greater protections for surrendered infants following the Legislature's unanimous passage of a bill sponsored by freshman Representative Donna Givens (R-Loxley). Under the current law, infants can only be surrendered within 72 hours of birth at hospitals. Givens' legislation, House Bill 473, extends that period to 45 days and enables fire stations to accept surrendered newborns if staffed by emergency medical personnel 24 hours per day.

"As a pro-life Christian, this bill is an extension of my belief that every child's life is absolutely sacred and must be protected," Givens said. "We want mothers and fathers who are unable to care for their babies to have safer, more compassionate options to leave infants where they can receive care before going to loving homes. I am particularly thankful to the Department of Human Resources for offering valuable insight and feedback throughout the legislative process."

DHR, which oversees child welfare programs like foster care and adoption, was a key partner on the bill.

"Without a doubt, this bill will reduce the risk of harm to infants by giving parents more choices and more time to surrender newborns safely in times of crisis," said Commissioner Nancy Buckner of DHR. "Representative Givens has done a tremendous service for our youngest Alabamians by sponsoring this important legislation and carrying it across the finish line. We thank Representative Givens for her insight and passion for these vulnerable babies."

Passed by the Legislature on June 1, House Bill 473 also permits the installation of "baby boxes" at hospitals and fire stations, enabling parents to surrender infants safely and anonymously. "I am hopeful that any parent considering giving up a child will go to a baby box and leave the baby inside instead of abandoning the child somewhere dangerous," Givens said. "We have to do everything we can to prevent harm to these babies." The boxes will be accessible from inside and outside approved facilities. Once a baby is placed inside the container, exterior access is locked and a silent alarm alerts on-duty first responders to retrieve the child immediately. An unknown donor has already pledged funding for the first 10 baby boxes at fire stations near colleges in Baldwin County, Mobile, Auburn, Huntsville, Tuscaloosa, the Muscle Shoals area, Dothan, Anniston and Montgomery. "Thanks to the generosity of this private donor, parents giving up children won't be leaving them somewhere dangerous," Givens said. "Those babies will have their lives saved and get to grow up in homes with families who will love and nurture them. It's a win-win-win situation."

every aspect of our lives. Biden's Department of Energy has proposed heavy regulation of gas stoves, and his Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Administration created a rule that makes 29 million gun owners instant felons for possessing legal firearms with pistol brace attachments. Recently, House Republicans passed legislation that would block the Department of Energy's regulation of gas stoves and passed a resolution that would stop the ATF's unconstitutional pistol brace rule.

Recently, I led two bipartisan, bicameral bills to help our farmers, ranchers, and foresters. The Forest

Data Modernization Act provides updated technology and easily accessible data to Alabama foresters to help meet the demands of a rapidly growing market.

The Feral Swine Eradication Act authorizes a pilot program with proven results to trap, remove, monitor, and assess land on which feral swine reside. Feral swine have caused millions of dollars in damage on agricultural operations across Alabama and can undo years of hard work on Alabama's farms, ranches, and forests toward feeding our country. This program aims to stop the $1.5 billion in damage that feral swine cause each year.

A couple of weeks ago our daughter Melanie was anxiously waiting for her young son Cannon to start crawling, and when he did she couldn't wait for him to learn to walk. Well, now that he has begun to walk I guess the next goal will be him talking with a large vocabulary. One day not that far in the future she will be wanting the world to slow down, but until then every day will be an adventure and a lifelong memory.

For what it is worth....

 The Dothan Eagle announced its annual 'Super 12' high school softball selections recently and receiving honorable mention was Elba Lady Tiger first-baseman Emily Richardson. The hard-hitting senior led the Lady Tigers in home runs and knocked in a bunch of runs as she helped Elba to its first winning record in four years and a fifth place finish at the South Region, at Gulf Shores. Richardson was one of only two seniors on the Lady Tiger roster, and it was her leadership and effort that hopefully will lead the way for the younger players on the team to work hard, get better and lead the Lady Tigers to many more banner seasons in years ahead.

 The Alabama Sports Writers Association announced its annual all-state high school softball picks recently with a total of 40 Wiregrass area players making the honored list, led by 1A state champion Brantley. Lady Bulldog pitcher Kaylee Navarre was named as the 1A 'Player of the Year' and continued the tradition of former Lady Bulldog standouts Alex Wilcox and Leanna Johnson to take home the top honor in the class, while eighth-grade slugger Alex Grimes was also a first team selection, eighth-grade pitcher Anna Claire Free was a second team pick, and senior Campbell Hawthorne received honorable mention. Brantley has dominated softball at the high school level for a decade, and with two standout eighth-graders on this year's team will no doubt continue that success for years to come!

Kinston also had two young players included on the all-state list with freshman pitcher Lilli Sumblin earning second team honors, and freshman teammate Camdyn Norris earning honorable mention. The Lady Bulldogs from Coffee County got better and better as the season went along a year ago, and with youth and skill on the roster you know better days are on the way.

 I read in an online interview with AHSAA executive director Alvin Briggs that studies have begun to move the semifinals of the high school football playoffs to neutral sites across the state. With two semifinal games in each classification that would mean hosting a total of fourteen games at various sites, and no doubt staggering the dates of the games to match the finals the next week. Possible sites could include Troy University, South Alabama, Alabama State, Jacksonville State, and North Alabama, not to mention Montgomery's Cramton Bowl, Mobile's Ladd-Peebles Stadium, and the Hoover Met. I have always been in favor of moving the semifinals to a neutral site to make it fair to both teams, and hope the AHSAA will do its homework quickly and make the move as soon as possible.

 The SEC released its much anticipated conference schedules for the 2024 college football season last week and according to the 'so-called' conference experts a major crisis was avoided and rivalries between many teams were preserved. The announcement was one of great interest to coaches and fans due to the fact the league will grow from 14 to 16 teams in the 2024 season because of the addition of Texas and Oklahoma, and because league officials made it clear they wanted to avoid sending any teams back to a location they traveled to in 2023, and to keep all sixteen schedules balanced. The '24 conference schedule for Alabama will include both teams that were in last season's SEC finals with a home game against Georgia and a road trip to LSU, as well road games at Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Oklahoma, and home games against Missouri, Auburn and South Carolina. With the schedule change, former Western Division rivals such as Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Texas A & M and Arkansas will now dot the schedule every other season. Auburn probably wasn't as happy as Tide fans since the Tigers will hit the road for games against both Alabama and Georgia, even though the other two road games will not be anywhere as tough against Kentucky and Missouri. Home games will include Arkansas, Vanderbilt, Oklahoma and Texas A & M. Gone from the schedule in '24 will be former West division foes LSU, Mississippi State, Ole Miss and Texas A & M. While there is not an easy schedule on the list, local sportswriters for all the teams as well as fans will no doubt sing the blues. Yep, football season will be just as interesting as ever!

 In closing.... In the Mularz household we don't have to look for a reason to celebrate in the months of May and June, since my birthday and Mother's Day both fall in May, and this year my wife's birthday and Father's Day came only one day apart. We really aren't big on parties, but do combine the special occasions each month and try to at least let someone else do the cooking by going out to eat. Maybe if we could find another holiday in one of the months we could maybe find someone to help clean the house and cut the grass.

Navarre named 'Player of the Year'

Brantley dominates all-state softball picks

The Alabama Sports Writers Association announced its 2023 'All-State' high school softball selections last week and named the 'Player of the Year' in Class 1A was Brantley Lady Bulldog pitcher Kaylee Navarre.

Navarre, a senior, pitched in 36 games this season in leading the Lady Bulldogs to the Class 1A state championship and posted a 24-10 record. She had a 2.20 earned run average and allowed 90 hits and 76 walks in 175 innings, while recording 338 strikeouts. At the plate, Navarre batted .378, with a .483 on-base percentage. She blasted 4 home runs, eight doubles and one triple, scored 31 runs and knocked in 38 runs. She was successful on 21 of 23 stolen base attempts, drew 19 bases on balls and struck out only nine times.

Joining Navarre as a first team all-state selection was eighth-grade standout Alex Grimes. Grimes, a catcher/pitcher, batted .467 and had an on-base percentage of .564. She hit 13 home runs, 17 doubles and 5 triples, knocked in 58 runs and scored 60 runs. She was 41 of 43 on stolen base attempts, drew 25 base on balls and struck out only 12 times. In six pitching appearances, the talented Lady Bulldog posted a 2-0 record with a 0.00 earned run average. She logged 14 innings inside the pitching circle and struck out 27 batters.

Named 'Second Team' all-state in Class 1A were Brantley's Anna Claire

Free and Kinston's Lilli Sumblin.

Free, an eighth-grade pitcher/catcher, batted .405 with an on-base percentage of .487. She hit five home runs, nine doubles and 11 triples, knocked in 56 runs and scored 60 runs. She was also 31 of 32 on stolen base attempts, drew 18 base on balls and struck out just 10 times. As a pitcher, she posted a 7-3 record, with one save, and struck out 89 batters in 68 innings.

Sumblin, a freshman, pitcher, posted an 11-8 record, with one save. She posted a 2.19 earned run average and recorded 171 strikeouts and 32 walks in 102 innings inside the pitching circle. She helped the Lady Bulldogs to an area title and a fourth place finish at the South Region.

Honorable mention all-state selections in Class 1A included Brantley's Campbell Hawthorne and Kinston's Camdyn Norris.

Hawthorne, a senior, second-baseman, batted .390 with a .485 on-base percentage, and hit one home run, 12 doubles, three triples, with 22 runs batted in and 58 runs scored. She was 40 of 43 on stolen base attempts, drew 14 walks, was hit by a pitch 12 times and struck out 12 times.

Norris, a freshman, first baseman/third baseman, batted .475 with a .550 on-base percentage and hit three home runs, four doubles and four triples, knocked in 39 runs and scored 31 runs. She was 5 of 5 on stolen base attempts, drew 16 walks and struck out 12 times.

Lady Tiger Emily Richardson is honorable mention 'Super 12' high school softball pick

The Dothan Eagle announced its 2023 'Super 12' high school softball selections recently with Elba's Emily Richardson receiving honorable mention on the elite list.

Richardson, a senior, first-baseman, batted .443 with an on-base percentage of .528 during the season to help lead the Lady Tigers to a runner-up spot in the area and a fifth place finish at the South Region. She had 19 singles, 4 doubles, 1 triple and 3 home runs as the Lady Tiger clean-up batter, and collected 23 runs batted in, while scoring 27 runs.

"Emily really stepped up this season as both a ball player and a team leader," stated Elba Lady

Tiger head coach Melissa Mularz. "She accepted her role on the team, on the field and in the batters box, and played a major role in the success of the team. She was one of only two seniors on the team, and stepped up as a teammate and a team leader."

Also receiving honorable mention on the 'Super 12' list were Kinston Lady Bulldog teammates Cadence Elmore and Lilli Sumblin, and Zion Chapel Lady Rebel Madison Meeks.

top but a much longer way from the bottom.

Although they did not catch the big ones, there were still some positives.

Padgett received the Alabama BASS Nation William C. Florence, Jr. Scholarship, and both members of Team Padgett/Young were recognized for having qualified for the national championship through the open tournament held earlier in the spring at Lay Lake. Each state is allowed to send a limited number of teams to nationals.

Padgett and Young are wrapping up their senior year on a high note as they plan their final high school tournament. They will go to Lake Hartwell in South Carolina the week of July 23-29! Here they will be competing with the top high school anglers from across the United States.

Once again, the Zion Chapel Bass Team thanks their sponsors, families, and community for making it possible for them to pursue their dreams.
